How often did the public use The Library’s free computers and internet services?

151,094  Public Computer Sessions
16,218   Wi-Fi Sessions
108,976  Hours of Computer Use

There are 156 public access computers among the 8 libraries. People use these for everything from applying for jobs to setting up a social media account to stay in touch with their grandchildren.

Everyone needs access to information to support lifelong learning and in the digital age access to the Internet is key. But less than half of the households earning $25,000 or less have internet access and only 69% of those earning $50,000 or less do. The Library is often the only place these individuals can go to access the information they need. For example, 79% of job hunters in the last two years utilized online resources in their most recent search.
